Laura Whitesides Host

A passion for textiles from quilts to rugs, to weavings and embroidered native fabrics found on trips to Asia and S. America have been catalysts for my paintings. Color, shape and texture have always been primary interests to me when interpreting these influences on paper. I love the idea of handwork from cultures, ancient and distant, all representing the need for humans to express their creative side while making items for their environment and needs. I enjoy experimenting with all sorts of watermedia and incorporating actual objects into my painting while investigating this subject matter.

Laura Host has been a Watermedia/Printmaking Instructor at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Center since 1993. She is also active on the Exhibition/Curriculum Committees at the Birmingham Art Center. Laura has a BFA from the University of Michigan in Painting and Ceramics. You can view her work at www.laurawhitesideshost.com
